MANILA YIELDS TO AMERICANS.

Augusti Flees and Leaves a Subordinate to Give Up the City.
The Surrender Took Place Last Saturday—The Philippine Question Believed to Be Greatly Simplified.

Scraps-McKee Service.

Madrid, Aug. 16.—An official announcement that the city of Manila has surrendered was made today. The city was surrendered Saturday, August 13th, by Gen. Jangles, who succeeded Captain-General Augusti.
The American troops occupied the city immediately after the surrender.

THE FALL OF MANILA GIVES SATISFACTION.

Scraps-McKee Service.

Washington, Aug. 16.—The news of the capture of Manila has been received here with intense interest. The surrender and occupation of the city simplifies the work of the peace commission greatly, for it places the United States in a position to demand the cession of enough territory about the city to enable it to hold and to fortify it.

The capture of the city also does another thing. It will undoubtedly make the policy of the United States absolutely clear as to Manila. That city and surrounding territory will be held. The question now will be, will the whole or only a part of Luzon be held.

A DISPATCH FROM WILDMAN GIVES THE NEWS.

Washington, Aug. 16.—The department of state issued the following last night: The following dispatch was received at 11:15 p. m., August 15, from Consul Wildman at Hong Kong: "General Augusti, who arrived here today, says that Admiral Dewey bombarded Manila Saturday, and the city surrendered unconditionally. Augusti was taken by the Germans in a launch to the Kaiserin Augusta and brought to Hong Kong. I credit the report."

CRITICISING SHAFTER.

H. J. Whigham Says That the General Tried to Fight Too
Many Battles at Once.

Scraps-McKee Service.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—H. J. Whig-ham in a lengthy review of the battles of El Caney and San Juan published in today's Tribune, severely criticizes General Shafter for fighting two battles one day when he had plenty of time to fight the battles separately. Whigham declares the honor of the victory was due to Gen.
Sumner and other commanders who obeyed General Shafter's impossible orders.

TALES OF SUFFERING.

The Manila Transports Were the Scene of Much Sickness
While En Route.

Scraps-McKee Service.

Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 16.—The Hondolup papers of July 26 to 30th, say that there was great suffering on the troopships conveying volunteers to Manila on account of overworking and insufficient food. This was particularly the case on the Peru and Pueblo on which a number of men collapsed when they arrived at Hondolu and had to be taken to the city hospitals. It is stated that troops on the Peru with typhoid fever walked to the street cars, but were delirious when they reached the hospital. It seems that the Red Cross services had been declined.

MORE HONORS FOR "OUR BOYS."

Officers and Men of Company K, Alike Are Winning Laurels.

Camp Grant, Newport News, Va., Aug. 16. (Special).—Company K, already the best company in the Third Kentucky, has won new honors.

Gen. Fred Grant on a recent visit to C. L. Smith's headquarters called for all the captains in the Third and then there publicly complimented Capt. Brinton B. Davis, saying that Davis was the only captain and sergeant who looked after the comfort of his men. He also complimented the men, declaring that for raw recruits the Paducah boys had made wonderful progress. This is due largely to Capt. Davis and to Lieut. Alf Stewart. There is no doubt that if the Third had been equipped sooner it would now be at the front with the Sixteenth Pennsylvania and the Second Wisconsin.

Sundry members of company K have been specially honored. Besides Privates Zack Bryant and Joe Sinnott, who are orderlies on General Wilson's staff, Private Knox has been appointed as Y. M. C. A. secretary, Private W. Shearer as regimental mail carrier, Private Fred McKnight as hospital steward and Private Jake Davis as regimental color bearer.

Several of these appointments will be news to Paducah people.

OLD LANDMARK MOVING.

The old Jarrett residence, one of the oldest residences in Paducah, is being moved from the lot where it has stood in Mechanicsburg for half a century, to a location just across the street. Apparently the ancient building is not being damaged in the moving. A dwelling will be erected on its old site.

Scraps-McKee Service.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Rev. Anthony Kolasky, pastor of the All Saints Polish Catholic church has filed suit in the circuit court asking damages for $50,000 against Arch-Bishop Feehan of this diocese, and Cardinal Ledochowski, head of the congregation of the propaganda at Rome, because they excommunicated him.
This is the first action of this kind in this country.

NEATNESS AND DISPATCH.

Police Judge Sanders Dishes Out
Justice While You Wait.

Judge Sanders' police court this morning was like an old clothes store in that it was full of breaches.
A dozen or more individuals and firms, some prominent and some not quite so prominent, were warranted for a breach of ordinance. The specific charges being that they failed to pay licenses. Most of the cases were dismissed.

John Hale, better known as "Brownie," charged with mugging up another colored boy's head with a baseball bat was held to answer in $100 bond for malicious assault.
Maj. Moss appeared for the sawed-off pistol, who is a bright little darkey.
Ben Duly, a negro drayman, acknowledged having fired a pistol inside the city limits. If he had stated that he had taken a shot at a Spaniard Ben might have gone scot-free, but he pleaded guilty and his Honor gave him the lowest fine, $2.

Ella Pyles had been drunk and didn't try to conceal it. Her fine was $1 with the costs.
John Bell and Annie Rushing were up for fighting. John snuffed Judge and started to explain but the Judge evidently thought John intended to work off a joke about not having done "Any Rushing," so he assessed a fine of $20 apiece, and costs.

NO BIG SHOW FOR US.

Ringling Bros.' Circus to Skip Paducah on Its Kentucky Trip.

Dick Hunter, advance agent of Ringling Bros.' circus, the biggest show now on the American continent, passed through Paducah this morning.
Ringling Brothers will appear at Mayfield, September 8; Princeton,
September 9, and at Hopkinsville, September 10. The show will pass through here, but it won't stop, because the Ringlings swore two years ago, when they were imposed on by local parties, never to visit this city again. In consequence Paducah will have no big show this year, and the home merchants will miss a big day's trade.

TRICK RIDER HERE.

H. G. might stand for high gear, lieved to be badly hurt.

ident announced the two military

Cuba—Gen. Wade, Admiral Sampson, Gen. Butler, Porto Rico—Gen. Brooke, Admiral Schley, and
Gen. Gordon.

Gen. Lee was slated for a commiswhich he will soon do.

STRANGE TRAGEDY.

Major Reed, of Savannah, Drops Dead Just After Receiving Notice of His Wife's Illness.

A Few Minutes Later Came the Intelligence of the Death of His Wife.

Scraps-McKee Service.

New York, Aug. 16.—The Marlborough hotel in this city was the scene of a terrible tragedy and a remarkable coincidence yesterday.
Major Reed, of Savannah, who was stopping at the hotel, received the following telegram yesterday from one of his children: "Ma critically ill. Come at once. (Signed,) M.
Reed." The major went up stairs to his room to prepare to go home and fell dead from an apoplectic stroke. A few minutes later this telegram came: "Ma died 3:30 o'clock. (Signed,) M. Reed."

ANYTHING FOR COKE?
How the Fiends Have to Get Their Doses of the Drug Nowadays.

Since the passage of the city ordinance prohibiting the sale of cocaine without a physician's prescription, the devotees have been driven to all sorts of stratagems to secure supplies of their favorite drug.

Sold a well known drug clerk this morning: "One negro man, I understand, makes frequent trips to Cairo, where the stuff is sold indiscriminately, and buys a considerable quantity of it, which he brings back and peddles out in small packages to the fiends at an enormous profit."
"There is a brand of alleged cascarilla cure, which is taken by being sniffed into the nostrils, and which is really nothing else but cocaine in disguise. Those who use the drug have found this out, and a great deal of it is sold here. Whites, in fact, seem to want it in preference to the unadulterated article."

The darkies have a new game,
I'm told. They stand in a circle, and alternately draw the stuff up their noses from the palm of the hand of one of the crowd until it is all gone. Then the fiend next to him or her who got the last instalment must go buy a fresh supply.

"By the way, the negroes have new names for cocaine. It's known no longer as 'coke' or 'crokane,' but as 'whiffings' or as 'the stuff that makes you rich.'"

BACKED JIM WITH HIS ALL.

Jim Corbett's Father Kills His Wife, and Then Turns the Gun Upon Himself, at San Francisco.

Jim, the Pugilist, Overcome by the Terrible News—Will Not, However, Be Apt to Interfere With His Next Fight.

Scraps-McKee Service.

San Francisco, Aug. 16.—This city was startled this morning by the report that Patrick Corbett, the father of the pugilist, had shot and killed his wife and himself at 5 o'clock this morning. He had lost all on Jim's last fight, which, it is supposed, had unbalanced his mind.

Asbury Park, N. J., Aug. 16.— Corbett was told of his mother's murder and his father's suicide at 11 o'clock today. He was boxing with O'Donnell when his wife broke the terrible news to him. The shock stunned him and he fell to the floor.
His trainers carried him to a small room and placed him on a cot. At first it was thought he would have hysterics and a physician was sent for who gave him stimulants and he soon became calm. He says but little of the awful tragedy and is undecided whether to go to California or not, but it is doubtful if he goes, as it takes five days to make the journey. His trainers don't think the fight will be postponed, though the tragedy will do Jim no good.

Corbett's wife thinks the old man was insane, as Jim's sister died insane some time ago.

YOUNG GIRL ARRESTED.

Allie Sparks, a 13-year-old girl, who was arrested last night afternoon at the instance of her stepmother, Mrs. Emma Sparks, who alleged that the girl persistently refused to remain at home, will be sent to the city hall, where she will be held for a few days. Her father, who is an Irishman, and went to Anderson several weeks ago.

A TRAGEDY REPEATED.

Cal T. Watson's Fate at Memphis Was Much Like That of Will Coughlin's Ending.

Both Were Former Paducahans,
and Both Were Slain Down South While Protecting
Young Women.

It now appears that Cal T. Watson, formerly of this city, news of whose tragic death reached here yesterday, met an end similar in several respects to that of Will Coughlin, another young ex-Paducahan, who was killed last Thursday.

Watson was stabbed to death at Memphis Sunday night by Ollie Courson, a dissolute white boy.
Courson had insulted a lady acquaintance of Watson's. This led to a quarrel and incidentally to a murder. The victim was reared near Florence station in this county, but lived here most of his life. Four years ago he went to Memphis to work in a furniture factory. He was 36 years old. He left a family. His slayer escaped.

Coughlin was killed at Birmingham, Ala., in a fight over a young woman, he having taken up her cause when another man spoke dis-paragingly of her. He was also reared in this city.

DISASTER TO "DEWEY."

During the mimic battle on the lake at La Belle park last night the flagship of the American fleet, the Olympic, the biggest, prettiest and most elaborately decorated boat on the water, went down in several feet of water, contrary to the program.
The craft was not damaged, being arranged so it can be sunken or raised. The occupants, however, got a good wetting, and one of them reported a close call for himself.

A PLAGUE OF CRICKETS.

A plague of little green and brown crickets struck town and the suburbs
last night and made things lively, especially in the West End, for a little while.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 16, 1898.

The rumor that Japan is preparing to protest against the annexation of Hawaii comes at this late hour in the nature of a joke.

The people of Memphis are willing to trust their sewerage system to Engineer James H. Elliott and have paid him the highest compliment that was in their power.

Bicyclists who have any regard for their lives will avoid any street in Paducah that has been dug up for the sewerage system. These streets all come under the nature of "un-finished business."

The Third Kentucky has been ordered back to Lexington, and probably will soon be in the embrace of its friends. But we are just as proud of the Third Kentucky as if it had charged the heights about Santiago or were now with Gen. Miles on his Porto Rican picnic.

An exchange says that the Hobson-Arnold kiss will be immortal; but if so, it will be because it is such a good illustration of the intense desire for notoriety that possesses many people. The people of the country honor Lieut. Hobson, but they are getting extremely tired of the sickly sentimentality that underlies the Hobson-Arnold kiss.

Mr. WHEELER says he will ignore state issues in this race, and that statement may be true. But the people are not going to do so. The infamous Goebel Election Law is and will be just as much an issue in this congressional district this fall as it will be in the state of Kentucky next year. Whether he so desires or not Mr. Wheeler will be considered an exponent of that unscrupulous gang of demagogic politicians who live on the Goebel law on Kentucky for no other reason than to perpetuate their control of political affairs in the state. Mr. Wheeler is a Goebelite and such the people of the First congressional district will consider him to be.

AN UNPARDONABLE MISTAKE.

Whoever may be to blame for the bad management that destroyed the effectiveness of the medical corps and the quartermaster's department at Santiago, or was responsible for sending sick soldiers home in such conditions as they came on the Seaco and Couch, or for the establishment of a hospital camp at such a place as Montauk Point, L. I., whoever may be responsible in fact for these most deplorable occurrences, it is going to be extremely hard for Secretary of War Alger to convince the people of this nation that there is not something radically wrong in the war department.

The task before the war department at the beginning of hostilities was a vast one and one that would have taxed to the utmost a man of greater organizing abilities than possessed by General Alger. That delays should have occurred and mistakes should have been made in moving the troops, or in selecting the military camps was but natural; indeed the mobilization of the volunteer and regular army was a splendid piece of work. It is also easily explained how, in the excitement and rush of the disembarkation at Balquid, the commissary departments and medical stores got lost and were so far in the rear when the boys were in the front fighting those two days' battles that will ever be famous in the annals of American history. It can also be understood, though by no means so easily, how sick soldiers could be shipped on partly provisioned transports like so many cattle, to be sent to northern hospitals. But now, after all the experiences of the war and with thousands of delightful and healthful camping grounds available, such an out-of-the-way location as Montauk Point, L. I., could be selected as a site for a healthful camp is beyond the comprehension of the ordinary mortal. Five miles from a railroad, reached only by impassable mud roads on the land side, with no water and with nothing but fresh air as its recommendation, Montauk Point was chosen as a place to send the fever stricken soldiers from Santiago. Secretary Alger may clear himself of the blame for other occurrences that have caused untold suffering among our brave soldiers, but it is probable that he can never escape from the odium that will be attached to the war department for dumping sick soldiers at Montauk Point, without water, without ordinary hospital comforts, without dry floors in their tents, and in many cases without tents at all.

SOCIETY NOTES.

WOMAN'S WEAPON.

"What is a woman's weapon?" I asked a charming girl. She dropped her lashes shyly. And stroked a vagrant curl. Then consciously she murmured— This resembled newly out— "I have a strong suspicion Her weapon is a pout."

"What is a woman's weapon?" I asked a lover true. He turned him to a maiden With eyes of heavenly blue. Her velvet lips were parted, And innocent of guile, And eagerly he answered: "Her weapon is a smile."

"What is a woman's weapon?" I asked a poet then, With sudden inspiration He seized upon his pen, "Oh, I could name a thousand," He cried in accents clear, "But woman's surest weapon, I grant you is a tear."

Socially, the city bids fair to have another "mild and lamb-like" week. While many of the society devotees are absent from home, enjoying the coast and mountain resorts, a goodly portion are summering at home, and find it no great hardship. They have their rides, dances and picnics, swimming parties, and an occasional trip, perhaps, to some near watering place or the country for a week or two days, as circumstances may invite, and find it far easier to make their own attractive city their summer resort, than to spend the summer away, amid discomforts that are poorly compensated for by the promised tonic in the air and water and stirring scenery of other climes.

Some of us discontented mortals have grown to be wandering Arabs, and real homelife, steadfast and abiding, we know nothing of. In winter we run from the regions of snow and ice to the land where birds sing and flowers bloom in the open air all the year 'round; and in summer, a flight to the seashore, or the mountains for relief from the hot spell.

Fashion decrees it, and what would not some do to be fashionable? The Episcopal Guild met last evening with Mrs. B. E. Reed, at the rectory.

SUMMER FASHIONS—THE SAILOR.

HAT A THING OF THE PAST.

It has been prophesied that the sailor hat and shirt waist have come to stay. The Parisians are already weary of the shirt waist and have replaced it this season by exquisite gowns of linen for morning wear whose bodices admit of far more variety than any shirt waist ever made. The straight stiff brim of the sailor hat also found a rival in a new shape whose becomingness is far more general. It has a wide brim, slightly depressed in front and a crown rather low and slightly conical, adorned only by a band of black velvet and a handsome antique buckle. This is another step in the direction of the fashions of our grandmothers. There are those of us who can remember the "flat" of forty years ago, whose front was held down by a velvet or corded silk ribbon in the hands of its wearer.

CHERRIES A GREAT FAVORITE.

Cherries are in high favor with the Parisians just now, not only are they worn in hats, but as corsage and coiffure ornaments in the evening. There has always been a vogue about using these pretty little red balls through the summer, and the pronounced leaning towards reds of all shades at present has given them a decided impetus. Summer gowns are also embroidered with them and even fluffy mousseline de soie richings are edged with embroidered cherries and green leaves.

THE DANGERS OF AGELESSNESS.

"Which way shall we drive," he asked after he had made a dash to the front of the house, taken her into his arms and made a hand wagon run in leaving.

"I have no choice. Anywhere you like. It is enough for me to ride."

"But you surely have some preference."

"None whatever. The island, Grasse Point, Boulevard, Long Cabia pond, down the Canadian shore, anywhere. You can't go amiss."

"I don't care to decide, and it will add to my pleasure to drive you to where you would find the most pleasure."

"Really, now, I have none. I mean it. Please yourself."

"Hedra! I like to see a young woman with some kind of her own. If you have any choice, say so."

"I have said, and I have said enough of my own not to change. I'll be best satisfied to go where you like, and it seems to me we are wasting a good deal of time."

"Oh, no! The horse is jogging right along. We're riding, and I am always happy when I am riding."

"Will you tell me where we shall go?"

"I couldn't think of deciding it. Then the whole discussion was gone into again, with the result that they drove about the same block for two hours, and then awakened to the fact that it was time to go home.— Detroit Free Press.

SOAPY SMITH'S PARTNER.

A Young Tennesseean. Now in Kentucky, Has Two Brothers in Paducah.

Two Paducahians have a brother in the Kentucky country. Moreover this brother was a law partner of "Soapy" Smith, one of the most noted men of the West who died in Dawson City a month ago with his boots on and his gun smoking.

The two Paducahians are the Messrs. Weldons, one a member of the firm of the Weldon Tobacco Warehouse company, and the other an assistant in Dr. Dabney's dental office in the Campbell block.

The far-away brother went from Tennessee to Alaska with the first rush of the gold seekers. He was a young lawyer and established an office in Dawson City, where he formed a partnership with "Soapy" Smith, late of Denver, Col.

"Soapy" Smith was a veritable Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. In his social room or with his clients he was a bright, wide-awake lawyer, honorable and zealous of the interests entrusted to him. In the gambling house he was an unscrupulous player, ready with revolver or knife to settle his disputes or make good his word.

When he was shot down last month by Deputy Sheriff Reid, after wounding the officer and defying the whole town of Dawson, his young partner, Weldon, was the first man to reach the expiring "Soapy's" side and bear his last words.

and dropped in the water one of those huge rocks an immense cloud of bubbles came up from below, so that the water all around the wharf was so tinged a deep red. They thought that one or more of the divers had been crushed beneath the tremendous weight.

Soon the rope which attached one of the divers was violently shaken and a signal that the man down beneath the water wanted to be raised. When he was safely back on the wharf the workmen gathered around him to learn the worst. To their great relief he told them that a big shark which had been swimming at the bottom of the bay near where he was at work

Though his face was stern and immovable, a common type at sea-coast villages, there was yet something of anxiety in it as he sat there in the breeze in his shirt sleeves. He talked necessarily to himself as he looked through the cylinder.

"There's a wee bit of danger, but not enough to do any harm," he murmured. "She can cruise around many a day under the right conditions, but a little bit of bad weather might open her hatches and let the cargo out."

The British navy has not been without its Maine disaster, though, fortunately, these have been unattended by any question of fuel play—enemies have taught us a lesson. The last such catastrophe was in 1882, when the gunboat Doctrelor was sunk and 145 lives lost through an explosion in one of her magazines.

Since that time great attention has been paid to the storing of high explosives on board all the ships of our navy. The magazines are now hung in tanks built separately into the ship. The sides, bottom and crown of these are made of thick steel plate, weighing ten pounds to the square foot. These plates are lap-jointed

All the lights are in what are called "lightboxes," placed outside, the light penetrating into the magazine itself through thick glass illuminators which are protected by gratings of brass wire. The keys of these boxes are kept by the gunner of the ship. Near them is a stock of candles ready for use in case the electric current should fail. Entrance to the magazine is from the top, but out of what is termed the handling-room. The hatch of this is in line with the crow's nest of the magazine, and the floor of the the magazine the men have to leave behind them their knives, pipes and matches, and to put on special shoes that are studded with brass nails.

With the old-fashioned powder spark caused by the friction of a nail in one's boot with the floor was sufficient to cause an explosion. Now there is far less danger of accident. Many of the explosives now employed will only ignite by detonation. Prismatic and pebble powders if set on fire will frizzle away like a fuse, while cord fire filled with ordinary

These articles are placed in special storerooms far away from the powder magazines. Quick-firing ammunition cartridges for machine guns and rifles and drums of gun-cotton also have their separate compartments. All magazines are fitted with a flooding arrangement, so that, should the ship catch fire, they can be at once filled with water.

There is a quarterly examination of the dry gun-cotton to ascertain whether acid is accumulating. If it is, the explosive is at once saturated with water. Wet gun-cotton, being a very safe material, is kept in a

The other dangerous explosives carried by our warships are the so-called shells, which are given a place of their own. None but the most stubborn fuses are fitted to these, unless they are at the gun and ready to be fired. Their dangerous nature is indicated by their red-painted heads and the broad red band around them. Some are trained to handle these with the utmost care. Even signals and rockets are kept carefully out of the way of irresponsible persons. In fact, every possible precaution is taken to insure that the

TO OPEN UP A MUSIC HALL.

Cosy Theatre Will Provide Fun For Park Patrons This Winter.

When the summer theater closes for the season the regular visitor to LaBelle park will feel lost. But they won't feel lost long.

There is a move on foot to open a music hall to run all winter. In fact preparations are now being made to transform a building in a downtown portion of the city into a cozy little theater. Well known citizens are behind the scheme, and "Billy" St. Clair, a well known comedian, who was here lately, will probably manage the place. He has had considerable experience and much success in that sort of line.

Excellent vaudeville performances will be given nightly, and nothing that borders on the "naughty" will be permitted.

BULLY FOR "K!"

No Sickness in the Paducah Company, Writes Lieutenant Alf Stewart.

Our Boys Are Best Drilled in the Third, and Have a Good Time to Boot.

A letter from First Lieutenant Alf Stewart, company K, Third regiment at Newport News, to Mr. R. J. Dawson, of this city, brings good news. The letter was written last Friday, Aug. 12, and at that time according to the lieutenant all the men in the company were either well, or getting well. There was no serious illness in the ranks.

Stewart says he hopes company K will yet be sent to Cuba, to do garrison duty, now that going to Porto Rico is out of the question. The boys are making trips to the government ship yards at Newport News, to Norfolk and the Roe Buck beach at frequent intervals.

Lieutenant Stewart winds up his letter by stating that K is acknowledged to be the best drilled company in the Third.

A good force of workmen are engaged in removing the debris from the interior of the White building, on Broadway, which was gutted by the last month while being occupied by the Kentucky Glass and Queensware company. The structure will be replaced as before.

Dr. Murrell's new business house, on Broadway near Sixth, while small, will be quite pretty. The masons have bricks laid on the side walls almost to the level of the second floor.

A capsule manufactory and a storage warehouse for raw cotton are among the new industries talked of for Paducah.

CHARMS OF THE CARIBBEAN.

Beauties of Santiago de Cuba Described by One Who Has Been There.

Santiago used to resemble nothing so much as a cockatoo. It was just as colorful, just as talkative, just as inane. It enjoyed the supreme distinction of being the only civilized town of its size in which not a bookshop could be found. That was in ante-bellum days. The color must be there still, the loquaciousness cannot have departed, or the inanity, either. It is permissible, however, to suppose that the cockatoo of recent years may have latterly assumed some of the attributes of the buzzard. But the heavens, at least, are unchanged. Those who have there seen night unloose her leath of stars have seen lilacs allude in parterres of indigo. The expression is unfortunately poetic, but it has the merit of being exact. However it may be in the South Pacific, in this part of the world there is no display equal to that which the Caribbean sea affords.

Santiago has other charms. When our troops went a change from potting Spaniards, there is the blue-headed partridge. Unless it has gone, it will be very nice. There used to be fat turtles there, for which, unless they have gone also, the soldiers may fish, and which are very nice, too. In addition, there is the fruit. It is sweet as the eyes of the well beloved. Sometimes sweeter. Then there is the volatile, which Havana in her smartness gave up long ago, and which rattles yet, and very comfortably, along the startled streets. Moreover, there are the houses. They are quite cool. Some of them are so covered with vines that, seen from the harbor, they look like mounds of yucca. In the gardens is the brilliance of convolvuli and grandiflora. On the roof roads beyond the yellow walls is the ceiling tree, put there perhaps to shield the passer from the suffocation of purple skies.

Take the partridges and the turtles, the girls are—or were—very nice. They have, indeed, a habit of plastering their faces with powdered eggshells, which gets off on one's coat, but c'est la guerre comme a la guerre, and, besides, every silver lining has its cloud—Edgar Salinas, in Collier's Weekly.

DANCED TO PAY THE DEBTS.

A King's Scheme for Settling His Predecessor's Bills.

In 1719 Louis XIV. favored the opera, then established in the first salo of the Palais Royal (there have been two) with a special mansion for the better accommodation of its administration, archives and rehearsals. This hotel is situated in the Rue Nicaise. The building was generally designated under the name of "Magasin," whence the term "Pile du magasin" (not "de magasin") subsequently, not only to the female choristers and singers, but the female dancers themselves. It so happened that the king forgot to pay his architects and workmen. In order to satisfy them, Chevalier de Bouillon conceived the idea of giving balls in the opera house, for which idea he received an annual pension of 6,000 francs. He was paid, but the king's debtors were not, for although the letters patent were granted somewhere about the beginning of 1713, not a single ball had been given when the most magnificent of the Bourbon sovereigns descended to his grave.

One day, shortly after his death, d'Argenson, the then lieutenant of police, was talking to Louis' nephew, Philippe d'Orleans, the regent, "Monseigneur," he said, "there are people who go about yelling that his majesty of blessed memory was a bankrupt and a thief. I'll have them arrested, and have them flung into some deep underground dungeon."

"You don't know what you are talking about," was the answer. "Those people must be paid, and then they'll cease to bellow." "But how, Monseigneur?" "Let's give the balls that were projected by Bouillon," he said, so done. And the people danced to pay Louis XIV's debts, as, according to Shadwell, people drank to fill Charles II's coffers—

"The king's most faithful subjects we in a service are not dull; We drink to show our loyalty And make his coffers full."
